FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
WASHINGTON

OFFICE OF
THE CHAIRMAN

September 15, 1995

Dear Potential Bidder:

Thank you for your interest in the FCC's auction of available spectrum in the Multipoint and/or Multichannel Distribution Service (MDS). This auction is scheduled to begin on November 13, 1995.

Since 1993 when Congress authorized the Commission to award licenses by competitive bidding, we have completed four successful auctions. Specifically, we have held auctions for nationwide and regional narrowband Personal Communications Services (PCS) licenses; broadband PCS licenses; and Interactive Video and Data Service licenses. To date, these auctions have raised nearly nine billion dollars for the U.S. Treasury. The auction approach allows the Commission to award spectrum efficiently to entrepreneurs who value it most highly.

We are now, for the first time, applying the auction method of awarding authorizations to the MDS service. Earlier this year, the Commission initiated a new licensing scheme for MDS facilities, setting streamlined measures to distribute unused MDS spectrum through competitive bidding. Our new MDS licensing scheme also establishes a much larger protected service area for MDS stations, revises the MDS processing standards to utilize computerized interference studies, and authorizes the voluntary use of electronic filing procedures. Through the auction approach and other innovations, the Commission will now be able to authorize new and improved MDS facilities in the most efficient and timely manner possible, creating exciting business opportunities for entrepreneurs.

There are 493 MDS licenses to be auctioned, one for each of the 487 Basic Trading Areas (BTAs) and six additional BTA-like geographic areas. I cannot tell bidders how much to pay for a license to use this spectrum. That decision rests solely with the individual entrepreneur's business acumen. Bidders, however, should educate themselves about this service and only enter this auction if they are fully aware of the risks. This Bidder's Information Package is designed to assist bidders in preparing for the MDS auction. Bidders should read it carefully and familiarize themselves with the Commission's rules and policies concerning the MDS service.

Again, thank you for expressing an interest in the MDS auction and for sharing our enthusiasm for the auction approach to allocating the MDS spectrum for the public good.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Potential Bidder:

Thank you for your interest in the FCC's upcoming auction of the remaining channels in the Multipoint and/or Multichannel Distribution Service (MDS).

This Bidder's Information Package contains the rules and procedures which prospective bidders must follow to participate in the MDS auction. The MDS auction rules provide special measures for small businesses, including minorities, women and rural telephone companies that meet certain eligibility requirements. These special measures should allow a diverse group of Americans, through small business entities, to participate fully in this exciting entrepreneurial opportunity.

Wireless cable operators are currently using MDS stations, often supplemented with leased excess capacity from Instructional Television Fixed Service (ITFS) stations, to provide a competitive alternative to wired cable and other multichannel video programming distributors. In addition to the operating systems, many operators are in various stages of constructing their systems and some have proposed systems in applications, upon which final Commission action has not as yet been completed. Under the new technical and operational MDS service rules, the auction winners of each of the 493 Basic Trading Areas (BTAs) or BTA-like geographic areas will be required to honor the protected service areas of these authorized or previously proposed MDS facilities and registered ITFS receiver sites within their BTAs. It is vital that prospective bidders carefully ascertain the extent of existing and potential MDS and ITFS service in the BTA and understand all of the MDS auction rules.

Please study the contents of the Bidder's Information Package. If you need additional information, contact the FCC auction contractor, Tradewinds International, Inc., at (202) 637-FCC1 (637-3221). Thank you again for your interest in the MDS auction.

Sincerely,

Roy J. Stewart
Chief, Mass Media Bureau

Summary of Authorizations to be Auctioned and Upfront Payments

Please note that the upfront payment amounts listed in the following table differ slightly from those in the Appendix to the Public Notice dated September 5, 1995 announcing the auction. The upfront payments listed herein are the correct ones. The new upfront payments are the old upfront payments rounded up to the next dollar. The new small business upfront payments are 75 percent of the new upfront payments, rounded up to the next dollar. This rounding off procedure was implemented to ensure that the maximum initial eligibility for each bidder would be a whole number (a condition required by the Commission's auction implementation software) and to ensure that, when the upfront payment of a small business bidder is adjusted (by multiplying it by 4/3) to calculate the maximum initial eligibility, the small business bidder will have an appropriate number of activity units.

The upfront payment schedules guarantee that if a small business bidder and a bidder that is not a small business each submit upfront payments for the same combination of markets, the maximum initial eligibility for the bidder that is not a small business will equal the sum of the upfront payments for those markets, while the maximum initial eligibility for the small business bidder will be equal to or possibly slightly larger than the sum of the upfront payments for those markets. For example, a small business bidder submitting an upfront payment for all markets would end up with a maximum initial eligibility equal to 4,647,790 bidding units, while a bidder that is not a small business would have a maximum initial eligibility of 4,647,596 bidding units. Differences of this nature are a result of the rounding off process employed.

Small business bidders are cautioned to monitor their eligibility carefully during the auction, especially during stage transitions. This is because, when a bidder's activity level in a particular round is below its required bidding activity level for that round, even by one activity unit, the bidding software will automatically charge a waiver to that bidder. Thus, small business bidders may be charged a waiver that they did not intend to exercise. To avoid this, small business bidders would need to use the automatic waiver override procedures. See the activity rule discussion in the Auction Procedures, Terms and Conditions section of this Bidder Information Package.
